

66 YEARS OF EMMY®

1948 The Emmy Awards are conceived. The Television Academy's founding fathers struggle to name the award: Television Academy founder Syd Cassyd suggests "Ike," the nickname for the television iconoscope tube. Pioneer television engineer and future (1949) Academy president Harry Lubcke suggests "Immy," a nickname for the image-orthicon camera tube instrumental in the technical development of television. "Immy" is feminized as "Emmy" because the statuette, designed by engineer Louis McManus (who enlisted his wife Dorothy to model for it) depicts the winged "muse of art uplifting the electron of science."

1949 First Emmy Awards – given to Los Angeles area programming – take place at the Hollywood Athletic Club on January 25. Tickets are $5.00. It is broadcast on local station KTSL. There are less than a million television sets in the U.S. The master of ceremonies was popular TV host Walter O'Keefe.

Six awards are given:

- Most Outstanding Television Personality: Twenty-year-old Shirley Dinsdale and her puppet sidekick Judy Splinters for "The Judy Splinters Show."
- The Station Award for Outstanding Overall Achievement: KTLA (the first commercial television station west of the Mississippi River).
- Technical Award: Engineer Charles Mesak of Don Lee Television for the introduction of TV camera technology.
- The Best Film Made for Television: "The Necklace" (a half hour adaptation of Guy de Maupassant's classic short story).
- Most Popular Television Program: "Pantomime Quiz."
- A special Emmy is presented to Louis McManus for designing the statuette.

1950 Second Emmy Awards (January 27, Ambassador Hotel)

- KFI-TV broadcasts, the six other Los Angeles area stations share expense of the telecast. Total estimated show cost: $250.
- Bill Welsh and Dick Lane share hosting duties.
- Academy drops requirement that all competing shows be produced in Hollywood; contenders now include kinescope programs out of New York, Chicago and elsewhere.
- A few hours before the ceremony, winners' names are leaked, but the majority of recipients appear surprised when announced.
- Ed Wynn is named Outstanding Live Personality; Milton Berle is awarded Outstanding Kinescope Personality.

1951 Third Emmy Awards (KLAC-TV, January 23, Ambassador Hotel).

- Academy founder Syd Cassyd hosts the event.
- Best Actor and Actress categories added.
- 1,000 people attend the ceremony.
- Emmys are recognized as a major entertainment industry event.
- When Groucho Marx is named Outstanding Personality, he carries "Miss Emmy" (former Miss America Rosemary LaPlanche) offstage rather than his statuette.

1952 Fourth Emmy Awards (February 18, Coconut Grove)

- Telecast locally by ABC's KECA in Los Angeles.
- Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz are the hosts.
- No coast-to-coast network broadcast available; New York winners are contacted by phone.
- Special achievement award goes to Senator Estes Kefauver who investigated organized crime and opened Congressional hearings to the television audience.
- AT&T presented with special achievement award for developing microwave relay system that enables television to be viewed nationwide.
- Awards committee is set up to develop a national awards system.

- 1953 Fifth Emmy Awards (KLAC, February 3, Hotel Statler)
- Art Linkletter emcees, handling with aplomb falling scenery and a microphone that goes dead for 10 minutes.
 - Lucille Ball accepts Emmys for Best Situation Comedy ("I Love Lucy") and Best Comedienne. It is the first social function she attends since the birth of her son, Desi Arnaz Jr.
 - Although Lucy is also considered a shoe-in for Outstanding Television Personality, the award goes to Bishop Fulton J. Sheen.
- 1954 Sixth Emmy Awards (KHJ, February 11, Hollywood Palladium)
- Ed Sullivan emcees, a move intended to diffuse his rancor towards the West Coast-based Academy.
 - Ceremony almost cancelled when broadcaster KHJ-TV cannot find a sponsor.
 - Year marks the beginning of "the golden age of television's" live anthology drama series such as "Television Playhouse," "Studio One," "Playhouse 90," "Kraft Television Theatre" and the "U.S. Steel Hour."

- 1957 Ninth Emmy Awards (NBC, March 16)
- Awards Ceremony is preceded a month earlier by novel, color telecast to announce nominees, scripted by Rod Serling and featuring Steve Allen, Sid Caesar, Phil Silvers, Danny Thomas and songwriter Johnny Mercer (then Television Academy President).
 - First nationwide color telecast from NBC's East and West Coast studios; Desi Arnaz emcees.
 - According to TV Guide's March 16, 1957 issue, "...the Emmy Awards have finally achieved the stature of the Oscars. Certainly everyone in television feels that the Emmy is the highest honor in the industry."
- 1958 10th Emmy Awards (NBC, April 15, Coconut Grove in Hollywood; Seventh Regiment Armory National Guard in New York).
- Phil Silvers hosts on the East Coast and Danny Thomas on West Coast.
 - Telecast sponsors include Procter & Gamble and the Pontiac Division of General Motors.
 - Lassie finally attends the show as a presenter.
- 1959 11th Emmy Awards (NBC, May 6)
- First time Emmys are broadcast from three locations: Hollywood (Moulin Rouge), New York (Ziegfeld Theatre) and Washington, D.C. (Mayflower Hotel) --where Vice President Richard Nixon helps present news and documentary awards.
 - Raymond Burr emcees.
 - Fred Astaire wins an Emmy for his performance on "An Evening with Fred Astaire," but Ed Sullivan contests it. Ultimately, Astaire keeps his award.
 - Eligibility period stretched to 14 months one time only, allowing the switch of eligibility period from calendar year to actual TV season.
 - NBC technicians strike (in tuxedos keeping with Emmy dress code); cameras and broadcast controls are manned by NBC executives. Broadcast proceeds without technical difficulty.

- 1960 12th Emmy Awards (NBC, June 20, NBC's Burbank Studios; Ziegfeld Theatre in New York). Fred Astaire hosts in Burbank; Arthur Godfrey from New York.
Telecast highlighted by many firsts:
- Harry Belafonte is first black performer to win an Emmy, for "Tonight with Belafonte"
 - Hanna-Barbera's syndicated show "Huckleberry Hound" wins Outstanding Children's Show. It is the first syndicated program and the first cartoon series to ever win an Emmy.
 - Ingrid Bergman wins an Emmy for her first television performance in NBC's "The Turn of the Screw."
 - Laurence Olivier wins an Emmy for his debut television performance in NBC's "The Moon and Sixpence."
 - A relatively unknown standup comedian, Bob Newhart, fills in for Mike Nichols and Elaine May. A new television star is born.
- 1961 13th Emmy Awards (NBC, May 16 Moulin Rouge in Hollywood; Ziegfeld Theatre in New York)
- Dick Powell hosts from Hollywood and Joey Bishop from New York.
 - First time eligibility period for awards directly parallels television network season.
 - Ceremony dominated by "Hallmark Hall of Fame's Macbeth," the first made-for-TV movie – Emmys go to the program, stars Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson, director George Schaefer.
 - Telecast pulls a 33.9 Nielsen rating and is the most watched show of its week, beating "Candid Camera," "The Ed Sullivan Show" and "The Untouchables."
- 1962 14th Emmy Awards (NBC, May 22)
- Telecast uses film and tape clips from nominated shows for the first time.
 - Bob Newhart emcees from the Hollywood Palladium; Johnny Carson from the New York Astor Hotel; NBC newsman David Brinkley hosts at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington D.C.
 - Washington, D.C. takes the spotlight as special Trustees Award is given to Jacqueline Kennedy for her CBS-TV tour of the White House. Lady Bird Johnson accepts for the camera-shy First Lady.
 - A new award is presented in New York created solely for daytime programs.
 - Television Academy's Board of Trustees honors the news departments of ABC, CBS and NBC for their coverage of John Glenn's space flight.
- 1963 15th Emmy Awards (NBC, May 26, Hollywood Palladium, Americana Hotel in New York, Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington)
- Joey Bishop emcees from Los Angeles; Arthur Godfrey from New York; Chet Huntley hosts from Washington D.C.
 - President John F. Kennedy receives a Trustees citation "... for having initiated news conferences on TV, and for scheduling a news conference as part of the first Telstar broadcast."
 - AT&T is given Trustees Award for conceiving and developing Telstar satellites.
 - An international Emmy is introduced and the recipient is the U.K.'s Granada Television for its three-hour adaptation of Tolstoy's War and Peace.
- 1964 16th Emmy Awards (NBC, May 25, from the Texas Pavilion at the New York World's Fair and the Hollywood Palladium).
- Joey Bishop emcees from Los Angeles; E.G. Marshall from New York
 - Top honors go to "The Dick Van Dyke Show" – Outstanding Comedy Series, Lead Actor and Actress (Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore), Director (Jerry Paris) and Writers (Carl Reiner, Sam Denoff and Bill Persky).
 - Shelley Winters wins for Outstanding Single Performance by a Lead Actress in Chrysler Theatre's teleplay "Two is the Number" and mistakenly thanks the Motion Picture Academy for her award.

- 1965 17th Emmy Awards (NBC, September 12, Danny Thomas hosts from Hollywood Palladium; Sammy Davis Jr. from New York Hilton)
- The awards categories are revamped.
 - Competition is minimized and excellence honored whenever or wherever it occurs. The 27 national categories are reduced to "area" awards: Outstanding Program; Outstanding Individual Achievements (Entertainment and Program); and Individual Awards in the fields of news documentaries, information and sports. Each category has possibility of multiple award winners, one winner or no winner.
 - More than 50 million Americans watch the show.
 - There are five winners in Outstanding Achievement in Entertainment (Leonard Bernstein, Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt, Barbra Streisand, Dick Van Dyke) and four in Outstanding Entertainment Programs ("The Dick Van Dyke Show," "The Magnificent Yankee," "My Name is Barbra," "What Is Sonata Form? Young People's Concert with Leonard Bernstein").
- 1966 18th Emmy Awards (CBS, May 22, Danny Kaye hosts at Hollywood Palladium; Bill Cosby at New York's Americana Hotel)
- The Emmy Awards begin rotating among the three networks.
 - The awards categories are revamped again. Half revert to previous format of one winner per category. The rest continue to be "areas" of achievement in which multiple, one or no winners can be named.
 - Bill Cosby ("I Spy") wins Outstanding Actor in a Drama Series – only the second black performer to win an Emmy.
- 1967 19th Emmy Awards (ABC, June 4, Joey Bishop hosts from Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles/ Hugh Downs from New York's Americana Hotel)
- Costume Design is recognized as an Emmy category.
 - Bob Mackie and Ray Aghayan win first Emmy for Best Costume Design for "Alice Through the Looking Glass."
 - Gene Kelly's "Jack and The Beanstalk" (which combined live action and animation) wins Outstanding Children's Programming.
 - "The Monkees" is a surprise first-season winner as Outstanding Comedy Series.
- 1968 20th Emmy Awards (NBC, May 19, Frank Sinatra hosts from Hollywood Palladium; Dick Van Dyke from New York's Americana Hotel)
- A highlight of the show is Lucille Ball, Carol Burnett and Sinatra singing "I Remember it Well."
 - Four months after its premiere, NBC's risqué variety show "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" scores four Emmys.
- 1969 21st Emmy Awards (CBS, June 8, Bill Cosby hosts from Santa Monica Civic Auditorium; Merv Griffin from Carnegie Hall)
- Four cancelled series receive Emmys: NBC's "Get Smart" and "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," ABC's "Judd for the Defense" and CBS' "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour."
 - Most controversial votes were 'no votes'. No Emmy is given in three categories: Outstanding Single Performance by an Actor in a Supporting Role; Outstanding Directorial Achievement in Comedy, Variety or Music and Outstanding Achievement in Children's Programming.
 - First time news and documentary awards are announced two weeks prior to the telecast.
- 1970 22nd Emmy Awards (ABC, June 7, Bill Cosby hosts from Century Plaza in Los Angeles; Dick Cavett from Carnegie Hall in New York)
- First year the telecast concentrates solely on primetime entertainment.
 - Separate Creative Arts Awards are created when craft and technical awards are presented at an earlier non-televised event; telecast can no longer accommodate expanding number of awards presentations.
- 1971 23rd Emmy Awards (NBC, May 9, Johnny Carson hosts from Hollywood Palladium)
- For the first time since 1953, the Emmys are entirely a Hollywood ceremony.
 - Shirley Dinsdale, recipient of first Emmy, flown in from New York to attend ceremony.
 - Skit featuring Edith and Archie from "All in the Family" opens show; "All in the Family" goes on to win Outstanding New Series and Outstanding Comedy Series.

- 1972 24th Emmy Awards (CBS, May 14, Johnny Carson hosts from Hollywood Palladium)
- New categories added: Outstanding Achievement in Daytime Drama which goes to "The Doctors," and Outstanding Religious Programming – Individual (Alfredo Antonini, music director for "And David Wept"; Lon Stucky, Lighting director on "Contact").
 - "Brian's Song" wins Outstanding Program, setting new standard for made-for-TV movies.
- 1973 25th Emmy Awards (ABC, May 20, Shubert Theatre, Johnny Carson hosts)
- Due to rules changes, the awards introduce a new category: Outstanding Drama/Comedy – Limited Episode, to differentiate competitions between ongoing regular series and limited series such as the closed-ended "Masterpiece Theatre" limited series.
 - Talk show category is eliminated.
 - Bob Fosse becomes only person to win an Emmy (three wins for "Liza with a 'Z'"), Oscar and Tony in the same year.
 - Categories are created for Daytime Dramas and Non-Dramas. Mary Fickett of "All My Children" is the first soap opera actor ever to win an Emmy.
 - For the first time ever News and Documentary Emmys are bestowed in a separate, May 22 CBS telecast from the New York Hilton.
- 1974 26th Emmy Awards (NBC, May 28, Johnny Carson hosts from Pantages Theatre)
- CBS wins 44 Emmys, the most won in a single year by a network.
 - "Super Emmys" awarded for first time. It is argued that since so many Emmys are given away each year for best actor (in comedy, drama, limited series and TV film genres), why not have them compete against each other for "Actor of the Year – Series" or "Actor of the Year – Special." Likewise for actress, directors, writers, etc. Fourteen Super Emmys in primetime and five in daytime are awarded. Two hundred of Hollywood's biggest stars, producers and directors protest and threaten to quit the Academy but NATAS convinces them to give it a try. Soon after the broadcast, "Super Emmy" is dropped.
 - First time Daytime TV given a separate, daytime broadcast May 28 on NBC from Rockefeller Plaza in New York.
 - News and Documentary Emmys are presented on ABC on September 4.
- 1975 27th Primetime Emmy Awards (CBS May 19, from Hollywood Palladium)
- Telecast features 10 female stars as Mistresses of Ceremonies: Lucille Ball, Bea Arthur, Jean Stapleton, Carol Burnett, Cher, Teresa Graves, Mary Tyler Moore, Susan Saint James, Michael Learned and Karen Valentine. The 11th "hostess" is Flip Wilson appearing in drag as his sassy character "Geraldine."
 - Writers and directors threaten to boycott the Emmys when they learn of Television Academy's initial plan to present their Emmys off air.
- 1976 28th Primetime Emmy Awards (ABC, May 17, Shubert Theatre)
- Hosting duties are shared by Mary Tyler Moore and John Denver.
 - Newcomer "Saturday Night Live" wins four Emmys out of five nominations. Milton Berle presents show with Best Variety Series award.
- 1977 29th Primetime Emmy Awards (NBC, September 11, Pasadena Civic Auditorium)
- Due to differences between New York and Hollywood chapters of the Television Academy, and the split of the organization into two different academies, the Primetime Emmys air in September. The Hollywood group reverts to its original name -- Academy of Television Arts & Sciences -- and the New York group goes by National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences.
 - Each group controls specific award shows. Los Angeles keeps the Primetime Emmys and NATAS the Daytime Emmys, News Documentary and Sports Emmys as well as jurisdiction over 19 chapters around the U.S. which produce local Emmy events.
 - ABC's most-watched miniseries, "Roots", receives a record 37 nominations and picks up 9 awards – the most ever won by a miniseries.
 - It's a tie - a first in Emmy history. The category of Outstanding Special or Drama ends in a tie and both shows are directed by the same person. ABC's "Eleanor and Franklin: The White House Years" and NBC's "Sybil" both directed by Daniel Petrie.
 - Angie Dickinson and Robert Blake host.
 - The show clocks in at a record 3 hours and 30 minutes.

- 1978 30th Primetime Emmy Awards (CBS, September 17, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, Alan Alda emcees)
- Show is interrupted by a half hour press conference in which U.S. President Jimmy Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin announce a successful resolution to their peace talks at Camp David.
- 1979 31st Primetime Emmys Awards (ABC, September 9, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, Henry Winkler and Cheryl Ladd host.)
- Telecast is interrupted by President Carter's tribute to three television newsmen killed in Nicaragua and Guyana.
 - The Governors Award is presented to Walter Cronkite (who was president of the New York chapter of the Television Academy 25 years earlier); CBS Founder William S. Paley is given the Trustees Award and Milton Berle "Mr. Television" receives a special presentation.
- 1980 32nd Primetime Emmy Awards (NBC, September 7, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, hosted by Dick Clark and Steve Allen)
- The Television Academy adjusts the show to reflect the resurgence of variety/music shows and adds three awards for directors, writers and art directors.
 - John Leverence is named Awards Administrator for the Television Academy.
 - The 32nd Primetime Emmys are boycotted by the actors and actresses because it occurs during the seven-week strike by the Screen Actors Guild (SAG) and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA) against the television networks and major TV and film producers.
 - Powers Boothe is the only one of the 52 nominated performers to attend. He wins for Outstanding Actor in a Limited Series or Special for "Guyana Tragedy: The Story of Jim Jones" and receives a standing ovation. He is remembered for saying "This is either the most courageous moment of my career or the stupidest."
- 1981 33rd Primetime Emmy Awards (CBS, September 13, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, Ed Asner and Shirley MaLaine host)
- "Hill Street Blues," a first-year police drama on NBC with little viewership, receives 21 nominations and wins eight Emmys – no series has ever received as many nominations in one season nor has ever won as many statuettes.
- 1982 34th Primetime Emmy Awards (ABC, September 19, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, hosted by Marlo Thomas and John Forsythe)
- "Barney Miller," the long running police station sitcom had been nominated for Outstanding Comedy Series seven times during its seven seasons on the air. The show finally wins -- after being cancelled by ABC.
- 1983 35th Primetime Emmy Awards (NBC, September 25, Pasadena Civic Auditorium)
- Hosted by Joan Rivers and Eddie Murphy.
 - Risqué comments by Rivers cause the NBC switchboard to light up with calls from angry viewers. Telecast is subsequently edited for the tape-delayed West Coast presentation for the first time ever.
 - "Cheers" leads with 13 nominations and scores 6 awards.
 - NBC takes 21 of the 29 awards presented on air.
- 1984 36th Primetime Emmy Awards (CBS, September 23, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, hosted by Tom Selleck)
- "Hill Street Blues" becomes the most honored dramatic series in history with a total of 25 Emmy wins.
 - Show runs 3 hours and 36 minutes setting a new broadcast record for the Emmy Awards.
- 1985 37th Primetime Emmy Awards (ABC, September 22, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, John Forsythe hosts)
- Television Academy's Board of Governors vote to include national cable programming in future Emmy Awards telecasts.
 - An unfamiliar, tuxedo-clad man almost makes off with Betty Thomas' Emmy for Outstanding Supporting Actress in a Drama Series when he accepts the award for Thomas. ABC cuts to commercial and returns with Thomas making her acceptance speech. The stranger is Barry Bremen, a professional hoaxer. He is arrested for grand theft.

- 1986 38th Primetime Emmy Awards (NBC, September 21, Pasadena Civic Auditorium)
- The ceremony is cohosted by David Letterman and Shelley Long
 - "The Golden Girls," the first hit show in TV history with an all-female cast, wins for Outstanding Comedy Series and Betty White wins for Outstanding Actress.
 - After winning for Outstanding Actor in a Comedy Series, Michael J. Fox quips "I feel 4 feet tall."
 - During the ceremony, Letterman salutes Grant Tinker, who had stepped down as chairman of NBC -- its parent company, RCA, was acquired by General Electric.
 - The ceremony paid tribute to Red Skelton who was presented with the Governors Award. During his acceptance speech he confessed having missed being on TV for the previous 16 years.
 - An entertaining musical number saluting television theme music was performed which featured such actresses as Bea Arthur, Linda Lavin, Marlo Thomas and more singing and dancing to their program's theme songs.
- 1987 39th Primetime Emmy Awards (FOX, September 20, Pasadena Civic Auditorium, Bruce Willis emcees)
- Fox Broadcasting lands a three-year contract to telecast the Emmy Awards. For more than 20 years, ABC, CBS and NBC had bid as a group for Emmys and rotated the program. FOX outbids the competition with an offer of $4.5 million to telecast the Emmys over a three-year period.
 - Changes to telecast include:
 - Recap of winners are added two-thirds into the show.
 - Voiceovers inform viewers of the number of previous nominations and wins for each winner as they approached the stage.
 - No time cap on acceptance speeches.
 - Sets a record set for the longest telecast, coming in 20 seconds short of four hours.
- 1988 40th Primetime Emmy Awards (FOX, August 28, Pasadena Civic Auditorium)
